BRIDGEWATER'S THREE-PILLAR PHILOSOPHY

Bridgewater's belief is that the most reliable way to generate alpha is through a fundamental, systematic, and diversified investment process.

Fundamental

Focuses on an understanding of the economic machine to identify the timeless and universal cause-and-effect linkages that drive the market.

Systematic

Bridgewater goes through a disciplined process to apply its fundamental understanding in order to create explicit rules that can be debated and stress tested across time, countries and environments.

Diversified

Diversification is the key to generating a high expected return-to-risk ratio. It balances risk across return streams with low correlation to improve return-to-risk ratios and minimize dependency on any particular component.

An investment in the Fund is speculative and involves a high degree of risk. The performance of the Fund may be volatile. No assurance can be given that the Manager's investment decisions will result in profitable trades. A Shareholder may lose all or part of its investment in the Fund. Prospective investors should carefully consider the risk factors, in addition to the matters set forth in the Memorandum, prior to investing in the Fund. Prospective investors must rely upon their own examination of and ability to understand the nature of this investment, including the risks involved, in making a decision to invest in the Fund. There can be no assurance that the Fund will be able to achieve its investment objectives or that investors will receive a return of their capital.

The Fund is intended for long-term investors who can accept the risks associated with an indirect investment primarily in securities that involve a high degree of financial risk and are potentially illiquid. There is no public market for the Shares in the Fund, and no such market is expected to develop in the future. A Shareholder may not sell, transfer, exchange, assign, pledge, hypothecate or otherwise dispose of its Shares (or any portion thereof) without the consent of the Manager. The possibility of partial or total loss of capital will exist, and prospective investors should not subscribe unless they can readily bear the consequences of such loss. The different redemption terms applicable to the various Share Classes could have adverse consequences that may be material for Shareholders from time to time.

The Fund invests in and actively trades various financial instruments using investment techniques with significant risk characteristics. Such risks may include: risks arising from the potential volatility of the global equity, currency, commodities, credit and fixed income markets, the risks of short sales, the risks of leverage, the potential illiquidity of securities and derivative instruments, the risk of loss from counterparty defaults and the risk of borrowing to meet redemption requests. The Fund's investment program may use such investment techniques as margin transactions, option transactions, short sales and forward and futures contracts, which practices may involve substantial volatility and can, in certain circumstances, substantially increase the adverse market effects to which the Fund may be subject. All investments made by the Fund risk the loss of capital. No guarantee or representation is made that the Fund's investment program will be successful or that there will be any return of capital invested. Investment results may vary substantially over time.

The Fund may use leverage in its investment strategy. Leverage may take the form of loans for borrowed money (e.g., margin loans) or derivative securities and instruments that are inherently leveraged, including options, futures, forward contracts, swaps and repurchase agreements. The use of leverage by the Fund can substantially increase the market exposure (and market risk) to which the Fund's investment portfolio may be subject.
